

NEAR FUTURE

© 5-20-1989 Gregfolio Company. All rights reserved.

It was simply amazing, and better than I could ever have imagined. Far off in the distance were unlimited stretches of wilderness. The air was pure and exhilarating. The ground was fertile and the fruit of the earth — abundant. Everything you could want was here on planet Earth; one of the best places to be right now — unless you wanted to be fighting distant wars.

The thought of war was bitter in my mouth, and I spat. A lizard dogged the projectile, and I smirked. What of this thing called war? Planet Earth had been peaceful for ten years. Life had survived and we advanced dramatically. Did we advance too fast? I did not think so.

I played the line in the water. These damn fish seemed to be uncooperative, but then there always seemed to be someone or something that seemed uncooperative. Was it lack of cooperation or just a certain level of acceptance by others? I saw the lizard doing pushups on a rock, and I smiled again.

What do I want right now? The thought echoed through my existence. What do I want? I went through the familiar pattern. Where was I right at this instant, besides sitting here next to this lake, fishing and rolling a few thoughts, contemplating? What do I want? What do I have? A lot! I have had a wonderful existence. I have a beautiful relationship. The recent memory of you passed through a mass of nerve endings and psychological threads. I love you! The experiences with you have been remarkable. I wish you were here right now, sitting next to me, enjoying the view.

What else do I have? I have the complete ability to do whatever I want, when I want, have whatever I want, whenever I want, and to share whatever I have with whomever I want, whenever we want.

My one and only twin-flame, I think of you and love resonates throughout my whole being. I want to share my entire existence with you — forever.

Other visions achieved in all realities of infinity:

Zero entries on the endangered species list. Zero new entries on the extinct species list.

Complete freedom to do what we want, when we want, to have what we want whenever we want, to go wherever we want whenever we want.

To be an integral part of and completely successful in the enhancement and preservation of this planet.

Financial freedom to have, to do, and to go wherever I want, whenever I want.

To share my financial abundance with all who would accept it.

A beautiful, adventurous, fun, loving, committed, monogamous, spiritual, mental, physical, sexual, supportive, relationship-partnership with a beautiful, intelligent, happy, friendly creative female.

My own custom built home.

A reliable, efficient, well engineered, fast, beautiful, fully functional vehicle of transportation.

Freedom to play whenever I want, any hour of the day.

Perfect health.

A healthy, strong, comfortable, lean, flexible, whole, fully functional biological body system.